I have consistently been fascinated by the aspect of teaching and have had a keen interest in learning how it functions. The teaching and learning program will provide me with core teaching skills and competencies. Additionally, core modules and courses in the electives taught by top industry experts will help me expand my intellect exponentially. Moreover, one must understand and relate to students, providing us with a chance to our intellectual creativity. As a result, Auckland University of Technology will fill the gaps in my knowledge and help me achieve my future aspirations of paving a pathway towards a PhD. After graduating from Auckland University of Technology, I aim to bring international exposure back to my country and look to expand my knowledge by joining an educational organisation as a teacher. With the educational industry booming, the knowledge and the demand for sustainable education are growing. Moreover, I want to support my family with the help of holistic knowledge financially. Hence, I believe that this is the perfect career for me.

Higher education like a Master's from an overseas country would help me gain in-depth academic knowledge, technical skills and industry knowledge through advanced projects and a keen focus on developing professional skills. I realised that we could take education to the next level. Further, it would enhance my teaching skills, give me more confidence, and impart students' knowledge of the assigned subjects. This would enable me to handle my role as a teacher more efficiently. Therefore, after completing my master's, I look forward to contributing to the Indian landscape by working at colleges and educational organisations as a professor. I am looking forward to applying for a PhD, and this will be a gateway towards my goal. In addition, it will enable me to identify how trends in the education system impact the teaching and learning strategies of different institutes, which will build, refine and enhance my skills in performing any educational activity.

Auckland University of Technology is a leading university with an international reputation for academic excellence that provides an outstanding student and learning experience underpinned by research, enterprise and the professions. It is a research-rich, learning-focused, professional university with a global reputation for academic excellence. Student satisfaction, employability, sporting achievements and international recruitment are areas where Auckland University of Technology scores highly compared to other institutions. The idea of pursuing a Master's of Teaching and Learning emerged during my studies in bachelors and professional journey. The diversity a foreign university can give will bring numerous opportunities in life and a vast network. Also, it will enable me to work beyond my limits a manager.

I have explored many education destinations abroad but could not find one matching the standards of New Zealand Education at an affordable cost. The reasons to choose New Zealand for higher education are endless, beginning with world-class educational institutions to practical learning opportunities to highly qualified professors and more. Notably, for international students, New Zealand hosts a diverse community coming from several countries, which will allow me to learn about other cultures. This makes New Zealand welcoming and incredibly student-friendly. The educational degrees obtained from New Zealand are recognized worldwide, especially in India. This will make my degree a valuable addition to my professional resume. For the past several years, New Zealand has continued to be a promising hub for aspirants like me, who wish to gain in-depth knowledge in the field of Teaching. In India, it is difficult to get a quality education, especially for master's and higher education, requiring more experiential learning and advanced teaching methods. I want to get the best education to have the best career prospects and growth opportunities. Therefore, I decided not to pursue higher education in India.
