

SOP Sample for College Admission - BSC (HONS) Adult Nursing degree - Anglia Ruskin University, UK

In society, various people are engaged in different activities. But at the end of the day, nothing is more important than happiness. Moreover, Biology was one of my favourite subjects during my school years. These reasons helped me gain interest in the nursing profession. The one significant thing that I love most about becoming a nurse is spreading joy and care to the people around me. I have seen a majority of my cousins who are nurses working so hard during this pandemic situation. I do believe that every nurse in and around the world can love the people around so selflessly. Nursing provides mental satisfaction mainly with job security, flexible work timings, better job opportunities et cetera. I got closer to this profession during this pandemic situation. I wish to study for my BSC (HONS)

Adult Nursing and become an excellent nurse to serve others with my complete dedication and effort.

I am {Name}, hailing from {Country}. I have appeared in my higher secondary examination and have secured an overall of 81%. I have always been motivated by a desire to alleviate human suffering and assist those who are unwell. Hard work, self-discipline, sincerity, and dedication to the task at hand are just a few of the characteristics that characterise me as a student. In this globalised era, my goal is to find a demanding and responsible position in an organisation that requires strong analytical, conceptual, and organisational skills. For me, education is both a source of inspiration and a catalyst for intellectual growth. Therefore, rather than avoiding my worries, I confronted them. Currently, I am pursuing a Diploma in Aviation, Hospitality and Travel Management. During this course, I came across modules such as First-aid and Medical-Aid. Moreover, we performed some primary surveys practically. As a result, I discovered different types of major and minor diseases like Heart attack, Angina Pectoris, Epilepsy, Cardiac Arrest, Asthma, types of pupils (unconsciousness condition), shocks, injuries/wounds, Bleeding, Burn are a few, to name. Furthermore, I gained some basic knowledge concerning the treatment of the disease and prevention of its causes. All this was a big push toward my passion for being a nurse.

Since childhood, I have always participated in competitions and sports, whether in school or outside. I always believed in overall personality development, and thus filling my arsenal with the quality skills was a step closer to turning this belief into reality. I participated in several Science fairs and olympiads. I have a creative side; thus, to make it more prominent, I was also a part of many Art and Craft Activities, Creative writing competitions, Sketching and Different types of painting, and Traditional Dance competitions. I also learned crocheting and needlework. In addition, I learned about man-management and working with and through people. The values I learned throughout my school journey have taught me a lot about the different aspects of life, which I think I can emulate in my life ahead and hopefully make use of them through the means of your university.

My father owns a Civil Hospital in {State}. I often visit the hospital, get in touch with many nurses, and learn many things such as the objective of nursing, the dedication and hard work required for being a nurse, modules present in this course, and the nurse's duties and responsibilities of a nurse. Happiness for me is seeing a patient who has been cured as a result of my treatment. My ambition is to serve people in such a way that they feel energised to live till their last breath. I have always wanted to make this fantasy come true in my life. I have made it this far because of my desire, and now I want to go even further to realise it. This course will assist me in going a step further in that direction. Furthermore, this industry has numerous work chances to begin a career.

After discussing with my educators and co-workers my preference for university, I have no doubt that university is an appropriate place to pursue my postgraduate studies. It will allow me to attend lectures and seminars taught by qualified teachers and professionally competent professors with affluent industrial ventures and the soft skills required to become an exceptional researcher in the area. Furthermore, the university's close relations with industry and extensive research links with organisations will encourage me to utilise the knowledge and technique in the actual practices with the help of project works. Furthermore, the curriculum's focus on a practical domain will entrust me to put my knowledge into immediate usage and originate professional connections for a forthcoming career in the world healthcare system.

If I can enrol at your university, I shall try my best and do well in academics and practical sessions. I shall work hard and do my level best with the opportunity provided to me. I firmly believe that this university is the best I can get for my nursing course. I can guarantee you that this opportunity will undoubtedly increase my knowledge and deepen my skill if this opportunity is offered. After studying in this course, I am sure that I will be able to showcase many skills that an ideal nurse should have, like empathy, time management et cetera. If I get a chance to study nursing here after completing my nursing course, I prefer to go back to my hometown India to serve the people of my country. After completing this nursing course, I expect to get a job as a BSc registered nurse.

Without a doubt, the United Kingdom is one of the world's top places for higher education. The educational system here encourages innovation and innovative thinking, and a high level of student diversity, which I believe is beneficial to the students. Universities in the United Kingdom are well-known for combining theoretical and practical expertise. The most appealing aspect of studying in the United Kingdom is that institutions value practical knowledge, and as a result, I can acquire current and reliable information about my profession. In addition, universities in the United Kingdom offer a diverse range of courses to fulfil the needs of all students.

Nursing, in my opinion, is a field that encompasses all aspects of health care. I believe I have reached a point in my life where I am ready to expand on my previous experiences and work as a Registered Nurse. Becoming a nurse would present me with new options, allowing me to advance my career while also providing outstanding medical care to my patients.

Sincerely,
